

A close-up photograph of ancient Roman archaeological remains. The image shows a dense collection of fragments, including what appears to be a piece of reddish-brown pottery with a distinct rim profile, and various pieces of charred wood. The fragments are layered and overlapping, suggesting an excavation site. The lighting is dramatic, highlighting the textures and colors of the materials.

*Arqueologia
Romana*

